GREAT CROWD HEAR DAWSON LAST NIGHT

Senator White Moss of Pineville Tells Issues of Campaign, Introduces Nominee for Short Talk

DAWSON HOARSE, BUT STILL FULL OF FIRE

Probably the largest gathering ever assembled here at a political gathering turned out last night to the republican rally for Charles I Dawson at the Manring theatre last night. The theatre was packed, with a number of chairs on the stage and a great many standing up in the back of the theatre the line extending out to the sidewalk.

Just previous to the speaking a parade headed by a truck on which was mounted the classic log cabin, decorated in Dawson pictures and followed by a brass band om musicians from Corbin and Barbourville. The band furnished music inside the theatre also. General Dawson was roundly cheered when he entered the theatre, when he arose to speak, and at several times afterwards. The stage was decorated in white and yellow chrysanthemums and a large boquet of chrysanthemums was presented Mr. Dawson by the women of Middlesboro when he finished speaking.

Major E. S. Helburn was in charge of the meeting, and introduced Senator White L. Moss of Pineville, who in turn introduced Charles I. Dawson. Senator Moss spoke at some length on the issues of the campaign, the main of which he declared, was good roads. He outlined in length the highway conditions of the state, upholding the highway commission and the engineer, Joe S. Boggs, and appealing for the bond issue needed to carry out the primary system of road building in the state. In this he made an appeal for the return of Hon. Joe F. Bosworth to the legislature. Senator Moss reviewed also the accomplishments of the Morrow administration and told of Dawson's record in public service.

Mr. Dawson was then introduced to the audience. He was very hoarse from his intensive speaking campaign, but he had lost none of his fire and his speaking power which has won him so many cases. Mr. Dawson spoke at length on the kindness of the people of Middlesboro to him when he first came here ,saying that he would never cease to be grateful to them, and that if he was elected he would strive to show them by faithful service, what he could do for them. "I want to serve Kentucky faithfully as governor," he declared, "but most of all I want to serve Eastern Kentucky."

This is one race in which partisan politics should not play the major role. If my only claim for election was that I was a republican, I wouldn't want the office, and if your only reason for voting for is that I am a republican, don't vote for me," he declared.

Passing from this to the coal tonnage tax, Mr. Dawson told of Fields' erasire stand on the matter and criticised Senator Stanley for coming here and sayink Fields was opposed to a coal tax when the candidate himself had never expressed an opinion on it. Mr. Dawson flayed Fields roundly for his failure to express himself on any of the major issues, and assured the voters that he was ready to tell his opinion on any important matter that was of consequence to the state.

UNUSUAL NUMBER SCARLET FEVER CASES IN SCHOOLS

Nine cases of scarlet fever exist in the city schools, according to Miss Wilhelmine Marx, public health nurse, and this numbero is on the increase. Three of these cases were reported today. Most of the children are pupils of the central school.

The co-operation of parents in the matter would tend to break up this dangerous malady, Miss Marx said. Parents should not permit their children to attend school if there are any symptoms of contagious diseases about them. This is a high record, usually not more than seven cases occurring during a term.

She has been busy vaccinating pupils since school began. Work of this kind in the central school and the outlying white schools has been practically completed. Pupils of the colored school will be vaccinated next.

GOOD ROADS RALLY PLANNED AT PADUCAH

Men of Prominence From All Over Nation Invited to Meeting Some Time Middle of November

EXACT TIME TO BE ANNOUNCED AT EARLY DATE

Associated Press

PADUCAH, Ky., Nov. 6.—Good roads rally, declared destined to be a big factor in carrying the purchose for the $50,000,000 road bond issue, will be held here November 13 or 16, according to announcement of the Paducah Board of Trade, under whose auspices the advocates of good roads will gather. Indecision between the two dates is due to meeting of the members of fiscal courts, comprising the eight counties in the purchase scheduled for November 14 at Mayfield.

Men of national prominence from all over the United States have been invited to speak by both the board of trade and the Kentucky Good Roads Association in order that the benefits of good roads may be voiced by those who have experienced bond issues in other states. Among those who will speak is Governor Morrison of North Carolina, where a road bond issue larger than the one proposed in Kentucky was voted. Governor Morrison will tell of the benefits derived from spending money for roads under state supervision instead of through the various county units.

Agreements for the meeting and the exact date are in the hands of J. K McDonald and C. W. Craig.

The meeting of fiscal court members in the field is expected to result in the rescinding of a resolution recently passed by the association of magistrates in the counties comprising the Purchase, opposing the expenditure of funds derived from gasoline tax and automobile license fees outside the counties in which these revenues originated. It is pointed out by the Kentucky Good Roads Association that this would work to the disadvantage of the counties in the Purchase instead of to their benefit as more money would be spent for roads under the bond issue in these counties than would have been derived from the Purchase.

Prediction that the resolution will be rescinded, is based on the replies by a number of magistrates, to inquiries sent them by the roads association asking their attitude on the bond issue.

Provision has been made, in event of passage of the bonds, for their retirement in 30 years through a fund composed of the automobile license fees and gasoline tax, this revenue also being sufficient to pay the interest on the bonds, thus obviating any increase in taxes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Continued improvement in business conditions is reflected by returns from the national bank call of September 14. An analysis of these returns made public recently by Comptroller of the Currency Dawes, shows a gain of nearly half a billion dollars in deposits and more than three quarters of a billion dollars in total resources of the reporting banks in the last year.

Deposits in national banks on the call date were $17,040,530,000, and resources $24,712,876,000. Besides the gain over the September call a year ago, these figures represent an increase of $142,550,000 and $201,110,000 respectively since the call of June 30.

The analysis shows an increased credit demand, including a greater activity of capital. Also greater sums of money were laid away as reserves by individuals and firms in the form of time deposits which were almost $700,000,000 larger on September 14th than on the date of the September call last year.

Deposit liability of the national banks was divided as follows: Demand including deposits of the federal government, $9,133,017,000; time $1,864,369,000, and other banks and bankers $2,743,144,000. Loans and discounts were $1,934,556,000 and cash in vaults $361,485,000, an increase since September last of $29,531,000

Capital stock of the national banks was increased during the year by $1,232,394,000, a gain of $3,502,000 since the September 1922 call, surplus and undivided profits aggregated $1,591,330,000, an increase of almost $15,000,000 since June 30, and of about $10,000,000 since September 1922.

Total resources were gathered in nine of the twelve federal reserve districts than on June 30. Reductions were shown in the second, third and tenth districts where the decreases were respectively $19,699,000, $1,127,000 and $2,638,000. National banks of the eleventh reserve district showed the greatest with $98,875,000 while the smallest increase over June 30 wasreported by the sixth district with $500,000. National banks in every federal reserve district reported an excess of reserves with the reserve banks.

KENTUCKY HOTEL MEN BACK ROADS

To Make Hostelries of State Headquarters for Good Road Information

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 6.—Kentucky hotel men have volunteered to aid the educational campaign of the Kentcky Good Roads Assocation in the interest of the proposed $50,000,000 road bond issue. The Greeters, the hotel men's organization, has made known an offer to place in every lobby an insignia showing the hotel to be headquarters for good roads information.

The association at present is centering its interest on organizing committees in every precinct to urge the 1924 legislature to pass an enabling act in order that the $50,000,000 road bond issue may be put to a vote of the people. Passage of the bonds, the good roads association has pointed out, would not increase taxes due to provision having made for retirement of the bonds in thirty years out of a fund created by the tax on gasoline and automobile license fees, which is also sufficient to pay the interest.

Plans are on foot, it was said, to place 2,000,000 medalions on the front of automobiles showing the drivers are members of the association.

L. M. U. TO HAVE PROMINENT MEN FOR INAUGURAL

Distinguished Guests From Washington to Be Entertained by Local Kiwanis Club Next Saturday Night

PROGRAM AT UNIVERSITY ON SUNDAY AND MONDAY

HARROGATE, Tenn., Nov. 6.—Although the program proper for the inauguration of Dr. Robert Orville Matthews, as president of Lincoln Memorial University is as yet tentative, it is certain that at least twenty distinguished guests will leave Washington in time to reach Lincoln Memorial University by Saturday night where they will be entertained by the Middlesboro Kiwanis Club at the Hotel Cumberland.

The definite list of expected guests for the inaugural ceremonies has not yet come from the Washington office but it is likely that the following prominent officials from Washington and other cities throughout the country will be present: Secretary of Labor Davis, George Christian, former Governor Lowden of Illinois, Colonel Miller, alien property custodian, Bascom Slemp, secretary to President Coolidge, Dr. Harvey Kellogg of Battle Creek, Michigan; Editor White of the New York Tribune, Wade Ellis, assistant attorney general; General Sawyer who was President Harding's private physician; John Temple Graves, Washington, secretary of Lincoln Memorial University; General Hines, Mr. Yard, head of the national park conservation movement.

The visitors will arrive sometime Saturday and will take part in the Armistice Day program on Sunday and in the formal inauguration of Doctor Matthews on Monday. Because of the friendship which President Harding expressed for Lincoln Memorial University and its cause and because he was a contributor to the University; there will be set aside during the two days a time for fitting memorial ceremonies to Warren G. Harding. It is the hope and plan of Dr. John Wesley Hill, chancellor of the University, that in the near future there will stand a splendidly equipped and magnificent administration building at the University to be known as the Harding Memorial Building.

It is interesting to note that at about this same time two other University presidents and a chancellor are being inaugurated: Doctor Stratton Brooks, as president of the University of Missouri, Chancellor Hadley of Washington University in St. Louis, and the new president of George Washington University in Washington.

If the weather permits, an old fashioned barbecue will be served on the University grounds on Monday.

Everybody is cordially invited to be present at both the Armistice Day program and the inaugural ceremonies. During the short time, Doctor Matthews has been president of Lincoln Memorial University, he has made many friends who will wish to be present at the inauguration.

The program will begin at ten o'clock on Sunday morning and will continue throughout the following day.

LARGE VOTE POLLED IN STATE ELECTION TODAY IN SPITE OF INCESSANT DRIZZLING RAIN

MOUNTAIN ROADS ARE ALMOST IMPASSABLE

In spite of the drizzling rain which has been falling nearly all day, Middlesboro voters have been surging in masses to the polls throughout the day. At 2 o'clock this afternoon, 2263 persons had voted in Middlesboro and were still crowding the voting places.

The Opera House ward led all others in the number of voters, 710 having cast their ballots there. The numbers voting at the other places at this time were: South Side, 617; West End, 516; City hall, 420.

The polls are to remain open until 4 o'clock and it is expected that almost the entire number of persons who registered will cast their votes before closing time.

At Pineville the voting was heavy, 917 having voted at 2:30 this afternoon. These were distributed as follows: Ward A. 330; B. 320; C, 324. A great deal of interest was being manifested there and, according to the reports, Dawson was the only talk.

Interest in the state and municipal election has not waned here at any time during the day. Both parties and each of the city commissioner candidates have been making strenuous efforts to get the voters to the polls. The republicans have been bringing prospects to the polls throughout the day, all available cars being used for this purpose. The democrats, while not so thoroughly organized, have also been working for their candidates.

At the voting places, men and women have been distributing cards bearing the names of the commissioner candidates in whose behalf they were working.

In regard to hand bills which were distributed last night on which the name of Charles E. Cooke were used, the candidate state: "I wish to state that I did not authorize the use of my name. I have never uttered one word of criticism against any candidate."

It is not thought that the rain will great extent in the city. In the cout down the number of votes to any try precincts, however, where the roads are almost impassable, the votes will be materially curtailed.

Rain Hinders Vote in State

Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 6.—Voters in Paducah went to the polls today to register their choice for Governor. The full state ticket, members of the lower house and half-state senator. Both candidates for governor, William J. Fields, democrat, and Charles I. Dawson, republican, ended their campaigns yesterday and came here today to await results.

The weather early today was regarded as unpropritious for a heavy vote. Reports said it was raining in Paducah, Bowling Green, Lexington, Covington, and Ashland. The latter place reported that mountain roads had been impassable for the last three days. The cities, however, except Paducah, reported a large early vote. A drizzling rain fell here.

Little National Interest

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—With few issues having bearing on the next presidential campaign involved in today's off-year elections, there will be little in the result to indicate which way the national wind is blowing. Only one new member of the Senate will be elected. He will come from Vermont to fill the vacancy due to the death of the late Senator Dillingham. Seven new representatives in Congress will be elected, four in New York, one each in Illinois, Vermont and North Carolina. Three states, Maryland, Mississippi and Kentucky elect governors.

A THOUGHT

The times of this ignorance God winked at; but now commandeth all men everywhere to repent.—Acts 17:30.

It is never too late with us so long as we are still aware of our faults and bear them impatiently—so long as noble propensities, greedy of conquest, stir within us.—[illegible]

CUT OUT THE BUNCOMBE

"His tribute to woman and her accomplishments was very beautiful."

This is from a friendly account of a political speaking in Kentucky last week, says the Elizabethtown News. It doesn't make any difference to which party the speaker belonged because his type is abundant and prolific in both parties. He glories in the achievements of all Americans and carefully admits that Kentucky is the greatest of all states. He is proud of its sturdy womanhood and its gentle womanhood. In no nation is the citizen so much of a sovereign as in the United States and we (for the speaker is usually an office holder) are merely your servants. He dwells on that for service has grown to be a popular phrase, especially since there are thirteen million Fords abroad in the land.

If the speaker is a democrat he brings in Woodrow Wilson and occasionally fights at Chateau Thierry with Foch, Pershing, and other conspicuous members of the democratic party. If he is a republican he harks back to Theodore Roosevelt and would go on to Alexander Hamilton if Roosevelt didn't get the desired results. And then there's Lincoln. He was a Kentuckian but he belongs to the whole nation. Three cheers for Honest Abe. And our candidate, ladies and gentlemen, possesses the same characteristics of rugged integrity and indomitable courage as did the plain rail-splitter who was born in our own state.

Approaching other fields of demagogy he encounters the subject of education. The children of Kentucky are our most priceless heritage. They are soon to be the men and women, the fathers and mothers of our state. The speaker is for an education for every child no matter how humble he may be or how squalid his circumstances. He believes that the good road and the good schools are the twin sisters of progress and that their achievement goes hand in hand.

In closing, he appeals to you to do your duty. The [illegible] of the state is awake to the [illegible] of the campaign. [illegible] it will [illegible] good people do not [illegible]. Consider the marvelous motion,

That brooklets run down to the river
And rivers run down to the sea!

America's Favorite Songs

[illegible] is the [illegible] given [illegible] written in the [illegible]. A [illegible] deserve [illegible] remembered for one such song, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny."

This ballad, [illegible] loved, had fallen almost entirely into the realm of forgotten things before Alma Gluck came to its rescue. The popular prima donna [illegible] and made a talking machine record [illegible] a few years ago. This revival, together with the increasing vogue of the darky song [illegible] the catalogue, brought it into what seems a permanent popularity.

Other Songs

Although Bland's name is not as well known as Foster's, he wrote a great many of the popular successes of the 70's and 80's. For instance he is the author and composer of "Oh Dem Golden Slippers," which had a great vogue some years back.

One reason for the enduring appeal of "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny" is that Virginia serves in it as a symbol of home—no matter where one's home may be. [illegible]

Carry Me Back To Old Virginny

Carry me back to old Virginny,
There's where the cotton
And the corn and taters grow,
There's where the birds warble
Sweet in the springtime,
There's where this old darkey's
Heart am long'd to go,
There's where I labored so hard
For old Massa,
Day after day in the field
Of yellow corn,
No place on earth
Do I love more sincerely
Than old Virginny,
The place where I was born.

Carry me back to old Virginny,
There's where the cotton
And the corn and taters grow,
There's where the birds warble
Sweet in the springtime,
There's where this old darkey's
Heart am long'd to go.

"Yes, I do," I answered stubbornly. "I do not think very much of a mother who would leave her child on a stranger's doorstep."

"Perhaps the mother knew the circumstances, Leslie," said Sydney.

What circumstances? Into Jack's voice had crept a tone of truculency.

"Why, didn't the papers have the story that Leslie's life was despaired of because she was mourning so over losing her child, and wasn't it whispered among her friends that it seemed as though the only course of procedure in bringing her back from death's door was to put a baby in her arms?"

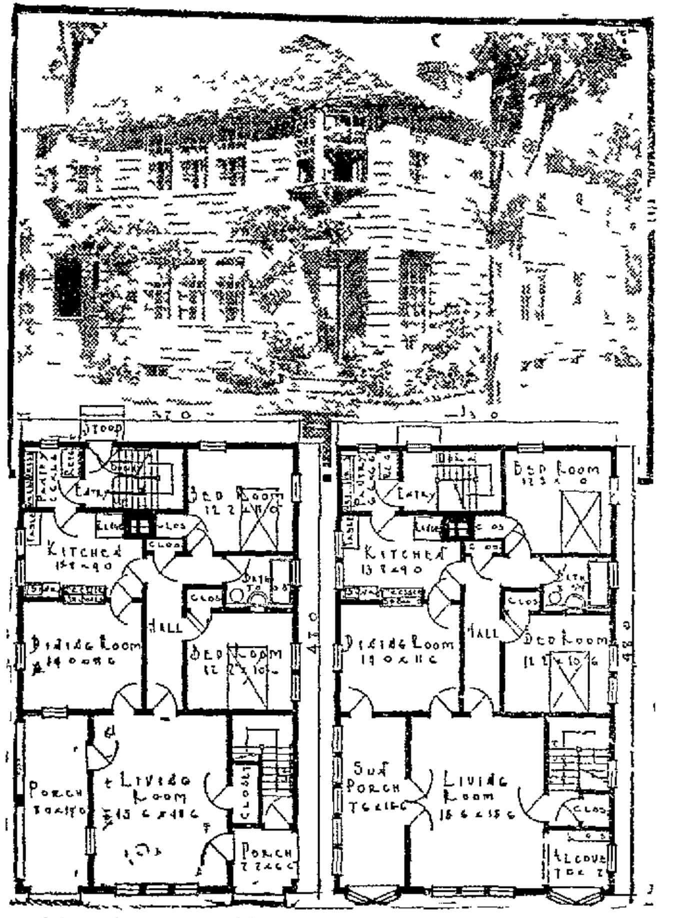
"DUPLEX" HOUSE FOR $11,000



CURTIS SERVICE BUREAU OF CLINTON, IA, DESIGNED THIS SQUARE TYPE DUPLEX

The Curtis Service Bureau of Clinton, Ia, estimates this home to cost $11,000 including wiring, heating and plumbing. The estimates may differ a little in certain localities.

In the larger towns and cities where lot values are one of the main considerations in the cost of building, the duplex or two family house meets a real need. Unlike the flat or apartment, it preserves the feel and appearance of home and yet makes possible many a home of your own that could not be built if the whole cost of building and maintenance had to be borne by one family.

Some builders prefer the two family type—where the suites are side by side each having rooms on both floors while others prefer the duplex—where one apartment is above the other—as in the desirable plan featured here.

Rectangular Type

This building is strictly rectangular even the porches being included in the rectangle and under the plain hip roof. The small porch at the right may be used as an entrance porch for both apartments and access may be had to the first floor living room from the living porch at the left also.

Each suite consists of living room, dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms, pantry and bath, with clothes closets, linen closet and coat closet. The second floor has a sun porch rather than an open living porch and an inviting alcove above the small entrance porch otherwise the room arrangement is identical with the first floor.

Among the built in conveniences incorporated in the plans are a combination sideboard and kitchen dresser between the dining room and kitchen with sliding doors for passing dishes from one room to the other.

Dressers

There are also dressers in the pantry, a work table in the kitchen and medicine cabinet in the bathroom. The pantry which adjoins the rear entrance affords an excellent location for the refrigerator. The upper house has a built in bookcase in the alcove and French doors to the sun porch.

Windows are used singly, or in groups of two or three—even more in the sun porch. They vary in size. There are quaint, attractive bays. But they are symmetrically placed and add wonderfully to the appearance of the house because of their divisions into small panes.

Not the least of the good features of the design is the fact that standard materials, in standard sizes can be used all the way through. This includes woodwork that is stock both in size and design throughout. No home builder should overlook the economy of the home cost of the use of stock materials in planning, yet it is practically impossible to make use of this feature in home made plans.

BUILDING NOTES

Tom Yarber is building three houses on Exeter avenue and three on Winchester. These will be either for rent or for sale when finished.

Mrs. M. L. Robinson is erecting a house at the Junction.

Alvin Howard is building an eight room residence in the East End.

A. W. Bryant is erecting a six room house at the Junction.

BAPTISTS TO BUILD RECREATION CENTER IN HILLS OF KENTUCKY NEAR PINEVILLE; 450 ACRES SECURED; WORK UNDER WAY

PINEVILLE, Ky., Nov. 6—One of the most notable community projects in the history of the state is being undertaken in the mountains of eastern Kentucky.

Mountain Baptists, patterning their plan after Chautauqua Lake, N. Y., and Winona Lake, Ind., are behind a movement to establish at Clear Creek Mountain Springs an encampment and recreation center on a scale of great magnitude.

The plans include three large lakes, large auditorium, hotel, cottages, club house and golf links, bathing beaches, boat houses, athletic field, class pavilions, parks, bridle paths, hills and lodges.

The most picturesque and beautiful location in the mountains was sought and discovered within three miles of Pineville—at Clear Creek Mountain Springs. The wild grandeur of Kentucky mountain scenery, the noted mineral springs, the junction of Little Clear Creek with Big Clear Creek, the rolling and sloping of the land, the mountains, the wealth of trees, flowers and shrubbery, the cliffs, the natural location of lakes—all these contributed to selection of the site. The lowest point is 7,100 feet while the highest reaches 2,200 feet.

First Dam Under Way

The required land, 450 acres, already has been purchased with a fund raised at Pineville and Middlesboro. A corps of civil engineers has been busy for more than a month. Workmen have completed preliminary steps toward construction of the first lake dam under supervision of the L. & N. The project has emerged from the stage of talk to the point where its success seems assured.

This committee has decided on a plan of selling bungalow sites and putting the money so derived from the once back into improvements. So highly are the people of the mountains behind the enterprise and so interested have Baptists of Kentucky and Tennessee become that every bungalow site is expected to be sold quickly. It is planned to hold a gigantic rally in Pineville the latter part of this month for this purpose, every with the knowledge that the money [illegible] as little as he may desire [illegible] being allowed to pay [illegible] into improvements.

The property will be managed by a board of control which will formulate safeguarding regulations such as those enforced at Chautauqua Lake and Lake Winona.

The institution is expected to yield a great influence in farm home, religious and commercial direction to the coming tide of commercialism resulting from exploitation of the natural resources of the region.

Already a 12 day program is being worked out for next August when Baptist speakers and workers of outstanding note will be secured.

It is also planned to have a preachers institute where it is proposed to bring together the pastors and active preachers of the entire Cumberland Valley.

Bell county has about between [illegible] and 30,000 inhabitants. Only between 5,000 and 6,000 of these lay claim to being Christians. Twelve miles from the Clear Creek Mountain Springs institution there is a section of 200 square miles which is without churches, only an occasional sermon in a schoolhouse in a section teeming with bright healthy girls and boys.

Harlan county is sending out coal in almost a continuous stream. A thousand carloads a day from Lynch to Corbin is not uncommon. Twenty two passenger trains enter and leave Pineville daily. A double track is being built from Harlan to Corbin. A ceaseless tide of humanity pours in and out of the mountains.

The state highway system will soon connect the Bluegrass, the Big Sandy valley, the Kentucky River valley and the Cumberland valley with hard surfaced roads, and the mountains will become a mecca for motorists. Tourists are expected to flock to it in great numbers.

All of the conditions reviewed is emphasizing the opportunity and the demand for such an institution as Clear Creek Mountain Springs.

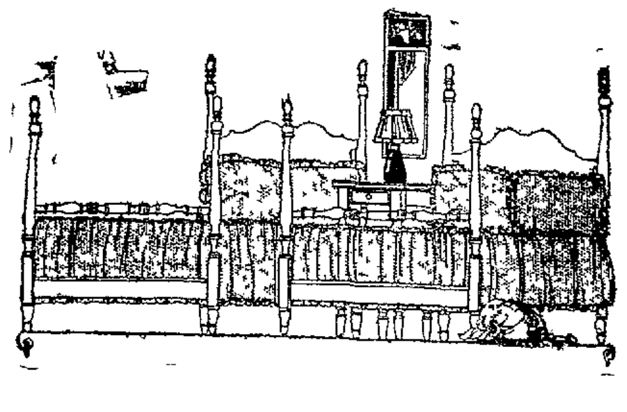
Comfortable Bed

AND a Bed can be only as comfortable as its parts. And those parts include the Bedstead; spring, mattress and Blankets.

When one of these parts is deficient—if the bed squeaks, or the spring sags or the mattress is uneven or the blankets are not the right size or weight, then your sleep is not going to be that sound healthy sleep that makes us feel so full of vim and vigor the next day.

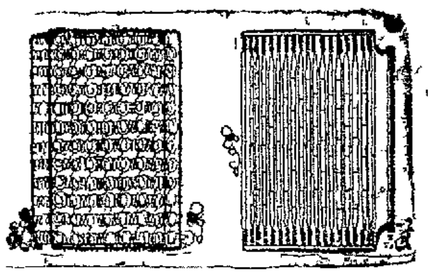


FOUR POSTER BEDS

Make the Bedroom Look Restful

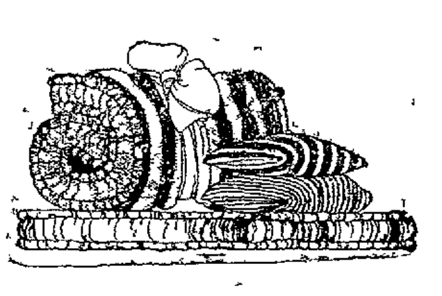
PERHAPS it is the simplicity of these four post-er Beds or maybe it is their tradition that gives them that dignified yet restful air.

We carry an excellent line of Four Poster Beds in twin, three quarter and double size. They come in combination walnut and combination mahogany.



Built for Sound Sleep

THESE "sag-proof" Springs are built for the large person as well as the person of light weight. You have a choice here of either a coil spring or a link spring—both will give you good service, both are comfortable.



A New Mattress and Pillows

AN investment in a new mattress and some new pillows will repay itself many times in sleep, for nothing is more conducive to sleep than a clean mattress and a new fluffy pillow.

Let the Cold Winds Blow

THEY won't disturb your sleep if you are snugly tucked under one of these warm wool Blankets or Comforters. You'll not only like the feel of these covers, but you'll like their looks, too.

If Love Should Come

If love should come some glorious morn
And find that I had locked my door
And taken all the sacred things
For which her heart so long had yearned,
Would she come back again at noon?

And when at noon she passed away
What could I answer in reply
To her sweet soul and tender voice—
If love should come?

If she should find the sunset
Barred, bolted, guarded by the cross
Of flaming gold that kept her out
Of heart and home, how could I meet
The pleading look of her sad eyes—
If love should come?

The marriage of Miss Virginia Barry daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Barry and Mr. Edward Yeager, son of Mr and Mrs. J. H. Yeager, was solemnized at the home of the former at 11:30 o'clock this morning, in the presence of the immediate families and a few friends. The Rev. W. K. McClure officiated, using the ring ceremony. The fireplace in the living room was banked with ferns and ivy, with two large baskets of white chrysanthemums before it, and the wedding ceremony took place before it. Mrs. J. T. Alderson at the piano and Prof. John Surman at the violin played Barcarolle from Tales from Hoffman, a French love song and a Chopin nocturne, and then as they played "At Dawning," the young couple unattended, entered the room to join the minister at the fire place. The pretty bride was dressed in a lovely dress of brown charmeuse with a taupe hat faced in brown. A buffet luncheon was served the guests immediately after the service and the newly married couple left on the 12:35 train for Cincinnati and eastern points. They will be at home here sometime after the fifteenth of this month.
